CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE (AMENDMENT) ACT 1996

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. The object of this Act is to amend the Criminal Procedure Code (Cap. 17) in order to bring the Law relating to Formal Admissions in Criminal Cases into line with modern practice in Criminal Cases.

Currently the Common Law prevents a Defendant in a Criminal Case from formally admitting any facts in the Proceedings short of plea of guilty. This means that the Prosecution in some cases must prove facts which are not disputed by the Defendant thus causing an unnecessary waste of the Courts time and expose for the Prosecution.

The Amendments would bring the Law of Kiribati on this matter into conformity with the majority of other Common Law Jurisdiction.

The Amendment is considered desirable in the interest of streamlining the law of Criminal Procedure.
